Romanic Salon sold out!

But, don't despair! Another one is scheduled for May 2, as a surprise birthday party for Isadora... She would be 138 years old and proud of it... In 1927, the year of her untimely death, she wrote: "I found the secret of youth in dancing... follow me and no one shall ever die again."

For the lucky attendees coming to our Valentine's Day Salon this Thursday, we are excited to share with you "The Many Faces of Love" Suite of Brahms Waltzes Op. 39 and the newly staged "Valse Brillante" by Chopin. Pianist Matthew Martin Ward is in great form and has been accompanying us in rehearsal this month. Roses have been donated and a chocolatier will be offering tasting, along with our wine, bubbly, array of cheeses, cookies, and, I heard rumor of chocolate covered strawberries!

For the May 2 Isadora Duncan Birthday Salon we are offering preferred seating if you pre-pay for your reservation by March 1. That should be enough time to know if the date works in your plans. We will likely sell out again as all who spread the word about the wonderful time they had circulates. Make your reservation now and get the date on your calendar. These Salon events are the highlight of many people's performing arts dance/theater experiences. We will be opening our merchandise table with archival materials in celebration of Isadora for the event, so this will be your chance to get that scarf, tunic, rare book, or photo!

What are people saying?

Past Salons have been "stimulating!", "provocative", and "different!" "I got to ask questions in the Q&A!" "After the performance, my friend and I mingled with the dancers ... and the food and wine was so good!"

Next week we will post photos and a round up of our Valentine's Day Salon.

We wish you all a fabulous love-filled Valentine's Day!
