

Lori Belilove & The Isadora Duncan Dance Company

The Marches!

Isadora Duncan's 136th Birthday

May 16, 17, and 18 - 8:00 p.m. (7:30 Pre-show)

The Ailey Citigroup Theater - 405 West 55th Street, New York City

What's the family-friendly pre-show all about?

Come to the surprise pre-show starting at 7:30 p.m. and be delighted by an exciting demonstration by children going through the basics of a Duncan class. The pre-show will feature young students training in the Duncan style at The School at Steps, The McBurney YMCA, and The Washington Heights and Inwood YMCA.

As long as Ms. Belilove is around, we are in no danger of forgetting Isadora Duncan, the storied matriarch of American modern dance. A passionate ambassador of Duncan's legacy, Ms. Belilove doesn't just remount her works but carefully trains her dancers in the fluid nuances of the Duncan technique. For the troupe's latest project, she resurrects some of Duncan's most politically fervent pieces, created from 1904 to 1924, celebrating the 136th anniversary of her birth. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at The Ailey Citigroup Theater, 405 West 55th Street, 212-691-5040, IsadoraDuncanMarches.brownpapertickets.com; $25 general admission, $15 for students, $10 for children. (Siobhan Burke)
